REACH ACCORD ON SANCTIONS

Great Britain and France Arrive at Firm Understanding as to Backing League of Nations With Forces

DRAMATIC MOMENT WHEN DEADLOCK HALTS PARLEY

Treaty Provides Each Member Will Contribute Military or Economic Assistance to Enforce Decrees

GENEVA, Sept. 15.—A dramatic moment marked the negotiations today between Great Britain and France over the problem of sanctions, which are the basis of an agreement to outlaw war. The agreement was finally drafted in a preliminary form and will be submitted tomorrow to the delegates of the other powers. On two occasions the negotiations were threatened with disruption, but owing to the patience of both British and French delegates they were resumed after a temporary interruption and an accord was finally attained.

The difference was over the question of how to insert into the agreement some definite clause whereby military, naval and economic assistance could be definitely assured and more particularly the naval and economic assistance of Great Britain. The final draft does not mention Great Britain or any other power, but is in the nature of a pact of general and mutual assistance and makes clear that each member of the league will contribute any force at its disposition, either economic or military, for the general maintenance of peace.

It is understood that the day was saved by the assurance received by the French delegation that Great Britain would interpret the pact to Continued on Page 4

PRINCE TO PROLONG VISIT TO SYOSSET

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS POST-ONES DEPARTURE
Presents Polo Pony to Miss Diana Guest, and Balance of Riding to Be Auctioned

SYOSSET, Sept. 15.—The Prince of Wales is having so much fun on his American holiday that he will prolong his stay on Long Island.

Although his departure for the "E. P." ranch in Alberta, Canada, was tentatively set for Thursday night, members of the royal party said today that the Prince might again change his mind and put in a few more days' play. He has had a little more peace lately for he has been more fortunate in dodging the curious crowds.

No announcement of his plans has come from his holiday home at the James A. Burden estate in the last day and night, except that the Prince would attend a small dinner party tonight at the home of Rodman Wanamaker, Oyster Bay.

The Prince has given "Ashby," one of his finest ponies, to Miss Diana Guest, daughter of the Right Hon. Frederick E. Guest, a polo player and member of the royal party. Captain Guest, whose home is at Hestly hills, married an American girl, "Ashby" formerly belonged to Lord Wimborne, Captain Guest's brother. It is announced that the Prince's remaining polo ponies will be sold at auction after the royal visitor has gone to Canada. His trip to South Africa next Spring and his intervening engagements will keep polo playing off the programme for a year or more, it was said.

The Prince of Wales today paid a visit to a point of American literary and industrial interest when he drove over to Garden City, looked at the editorial offices and works of Doubleday, Page & Company, publishers.

The Prince had known Walter Hines Page, the founder of the firm, when he was American ambassador to Great Britain, and "The Life and Letters of Walter Hines Page," published a year ago, was to the Prince one of the most interesting of contemporary books that he read, according to his secretary, Captain A. F. LaFolles.

Island Police Did Not Shoot to Kill Strikers

LILUO, Island of Kauai, T.H., Sept. 15.—Evidence that the Hawaiian police, who last Tuesday battled with Filipino plantation strikers, made no attempt to kill the Filipinos, has been found. County Attorney G. Kaukoku declared today. After obtaining statements at the hospital here from Filipinos wounded in the melee, he said that the police in firing had "shot low" and not aimed to kill.

MORE WOUNDED AS SUN SHINES

Stream of Casualties at Shanghai Increases When Rain Ceases, and Fighting Is Resumed Outside City

MACHINE GUNS ACCOUNT FOR MANY INJURED

Firing Heard on Manchurian Border Indicates That Two Movements Against Peking Are Now Under Way

SHANGHAI, Sept. 15.—The armies of Chekiang and Kiangsu, west and south-west of this city, which held their fire during the few days of rain, were fighting with renewed intensity today. As a result the streams of wounded men returning from the front increased. Reports as to result do not agree, but the best information was that there was little change in the situation.

Shanghai was calmer, although the naval forces landed to protect foreigners and their interests have not relaxed their vigilance. Both sides are using machine guns, which accounts for the increased casualties. There has also been heavy fighting south of the railway, where the Chekiang headquarters claim, advances were made despite the fact that its men were caught by machine guns when attempting a flank movement which carried them to Anting, one of their objectives.

Messengers From Mukden
SHANGHAI, Sept. 15.—Two messengers from Mukden, given out today by Secretary Loh of the Chekiang defence headquarters here, reported that firing began last night at Shan-hai-kuan, in Chihli Province at the Manchurian border, and in the Jehol district. In the heart of Chihli, 125 miles northwest of Shan-hai-kuan, and about 100 miles northeast of Peking. A second messenger reported the capture of Easayun, near Jehol.

These messengers, it confirmed, would indicate that Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian war lord, is moving his troops on Peking from two directions in his effort to overthrow the Government there.

Meanwhile the civil war about Shanghai, brought sharp fighting. According to a communique issued by Loh, the Chekiang forces allied with Chang Tso-lin in their opposition to the Peking Government, advanced from Kiating, thirty miles northwest of Shanghai, toward Tai-tang. They also were said to have scored advances near Anting.

Major Operations
The major operations, however were west of Tai Lake, where the Chekiang artillery was turned on Yihing after the Chekiang commander had withheld fire in response to a petition of the townspeople and disclosed this was a ruse to enable the Kiangsu army to bring up reinforcements.

It was admitted the Chekiang troops suffered unimportant losses when Junko on Si Lake transporting them were subjected to a heavy fire. A report from Kiangsu source said a flotilla of these Junkos had been sunk by artillery.

TIEN-TSIN, Sept. 15.—Despite Mukden reports of outpost fighting between Manchurian troops of Chang Tso-lin and Peking soldiers of Wu Pei-fu at Shan-hai-kuan and Hsien-feng-ho, it was stated here that no fighting had occurred. But, with many troops moving northwest, it is admitted the situation is critical.

Twelve full troop trains moved through here for the Manchurian border in twenty-four hours. Ordinary traffic is delayed half a day.

RELIGIOUS STRIFE GROWS ALARMING

CLASHES BETWEEN HINDUS AND MUSLIMS MORE BITTER

Recent Street Fight in India Reported One of Worst in History of the Country
DELHI, Sept. 15.—The religious animosity between Hindus and Muslims which has been growing for some time has now reached fever heat throughout India and there is the alarming possibility of its spreading over the Northwestern frontier, where the natives already are restless enough.

Disturbance occurred a few days ago at Laohat, which resulted in one of the worst Hindu-Muslim clashes in India's history. Ten Muslims were killed and twenty wounded in the clash, while ten Hindus were killed and eight wounded. Three policemen who intervened were wounded.

The trouble apparently was due to the circulation in Laohat of copies of a blasphemous poem aimed against the Muslims.

Seize German Ship With Arms And Munitions

DURBAN, South Africa, Sept. 15.—Customs authorities here are holding under armed guard the 1,400-ton steamer Nordmark, which sailed from Hamburg, in port of registry. One thousand rifles, a number of machine guns and a large quantity of ammunition, all undeclared on board the vessel, it is assumed by customs officials that the war material was destined for a Chinese port.

FALSE HOPE WILL NOT BUILD CANADA

FADRE CANON SCOTT CRITICIZES IMMIGRATION POLICY

Dr. Farthing Urges Government to Spend Its Money at Home and Save $400,000 Now Wasted

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—At a meeting of the Anglican Social Service Council here today, Canon F. G. Scott, Bishop of Quebec, a noted war-time padre, in opposition to the policy of immigration, declared: "We must admit Canada is today being carried on a big bluff. We cannot build a country on false hopes; we must get to rock bottom. There is no use saying we should bring Britishers out here to go on farms. They won't do it."

"They are doing it in my province," interrupted a member from Alberta.

Dr. Farthing, Montreal, urged the adoption of a resolution calling on the Government to spend its money in Canada and hold Canadian citizens here rather than spend $400,000 in attempting to attract back to their homes Canadians who had crossed the line.

Declares Montreal Worst Crime Centre in Canada
MONTREAL, Sept. 15.—Montreal is the worst crime centre in Canada, according to H. R. Dupuis, manager of the casualty department of an insurance company here, announcing the imminent further increase in the already high cost of burglary policies. He said burglary insurance is 25 per cent higher here than in Toronto. Dupuis said a number of companies had discontinued writing this class of risk.

Prince Comes Home to Keep Holiday in Canada

General Byng Will Board Royal Train to Welcome Heir to Imperial Crown, but That Will Be Only Official Event of Prince's Visit to His Western Ranch—Personal Qualities of Kindness and Tact Endear Him to Hearts of All Canadians

(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)
TORONTO, Sept. 15.—The Prince of Wales will return to Canada in a few days without flourish of trumpet. He asks no more pretentious delegation to welcome him than a little group of men who are in charge of his train. Somewhere in Ontario his old friend, the one time head of Canada's army and now Governor-General, will board the train to welcome the Prince of Wales back to Canada. Beyond that there will be no official events, and His Royal Highness will journey to Alberta as a private Canadian citizen on his way home.

In Canada the Prince is regarded with less of the wondering curiosity which met him in the United States this year. But to those who were privileged to meet him five years ago at that now famous tour which marked the beginning of his career as an "Ambassador of Empire," it will be very interesting to note what changes the last five years have wrought in him. For instance, does he still reach instinctively when he sits down to the table for that piece of bread which was reduced as the meal progressed into the smallest crumbs and surrounded his plate on all sides? Does he retain that uncanny facility for talking bridges to the engineer at his right, while he keeps up the conversation on stamp-collecting with another member of the party?

As Canadians Remember
The Prince is probably better remembered by Canadians for such traits and for his conversational gift than for the many foundation stones he laid in that first memorable tour of the Dominion. The foundation stones will be for posterity, milestones of his journeying in Canada, but his contemporaries will remember better the thousand little acts of kindness, which under the circumstances he might have been readily forgiven for overlooking. In fact, he is probably remembered best by those who have witnessed the 1919 tour for some unconventional act or word which disconcerted officialdom and delighted the spectators. The present writer remembers an occasion when he added to the stiff-backed group on the official platform an old lady who was struggling to keep her place near the front of the crowd outside the magic circle. He was not too preoccupied with his silver trowel and the carefully worded greetings of the Mayor to notice that this old woman was being crushed between the police cordon in front and the pushing crowd behind. In the middle of the Mayor's speech, he suddenly thrust out a hand between a couple of people in the front row and drew the old lady out of the crowd into the free space behind him. He tempered the old lady's embarrassment with a smile and a pat on the shoulder. The smooth flow of the Mayor's speech was not interrupted but the incident left its effect on the spectators.

An Unconventional Prince
On such a visit as the present one, there will be more opportunity for these little unconventional acts. He is still young enough to be hedged Continued on Page 4

PHILADELPHIANS RIOT OVER FACISTI

Welcome to Italian Flier Occasions Pitched Battle Between Supporters and Antagonists

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—Eight men were arrested tonight for riotous demonstrations over Lieutenant Antonio Locatelli, Italian aviator, who developed into a pitched battle between Facisti and anti-Facisti sympathizers.

Leaving the city hall where he was greeted by Mayor Kenrick, Lieutenant Locatelli was met with mingled shouts of "Viva Locatelli" and "Down with Locatelli and the Facisti," from the jammed sidewalks.

The aviator was hurried to an automobile and taken to the Hotel Commodore where the Philadelphia Facisti Society had prepared a banquet. Before his arrival, the streets for two blocks in all directions were crowded with milling men and women. As his car drew up before the hotel the cries broke out again. Guards hurried Locatelli into the establishment, as the fight started and the disturbance became general. Reserves from a nearby police station were called out and dispersed the crowd.

Wild Ride Through Forest Fire Saves Fifty Men's Lives

Heroic Engineers of Two Logging Locomotives at Port Angeles Boldly Plunge Into Mile of Flame and Smoke to Rescue Party of Workers Supposed to Be Trapped

MAN OVERCOME ROLLS OFF BUT IS RESCUED ALMOST UNHURT

PORT ANGELES, Sept. 15.—With flames licking at the locomotives and cars, and with men blistered from heat and smoke, two Climax locomotives of the Snow Creek Logging Company ran through one mile of flames and smoke at full speed shortly after noon today, and fifty men, thought at first to be trapped, are safe at Blyn, twenty-five miles east of here. With a mile-wide fire licking at the track between them and safety, the two locomotives made a run for it. The "Two Spot," Engineer Elmer Ahola, with two logging trucks loaded with men, struck the fire first, closely followed by the "Four Spot," Engineer Fred Kachenheimer.

With handkerchiefs over their noses and eyes, the loggers, worn out by two nights of fire fighting, flattened themselves out on the engine tanks and logging trucks as the train plunged into the blaze.

Just as they finished the wild ride, Tommy O'Brien, a hook tender, overcome by smoke, rolled from the logging car with the train going twenty miles an hour. He suffered a bad cut in his head, but was not otherwise injured.

Arctic Explorer Reaches Sydney Homeward Bound

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Sept. 15.—The schooner Bowdoin, with the explorer, Captain Donald B. MacMillan, and seven companions aboard, arrived in port safely tonight on the way back to the United States after a fifteen months' sojourn in the Arctic. The vessel was reported today as having encountered a severe storm off the coast.

WATER AT SOOKE AND JORDAN RIVER AT LOWEST LEVEL

The water in Sooke Lake has reached the lowest level on record, City Engineer Preston stated yesterday. The surface of the water is six feet below the top of the spillway as a result of the continued dry weather. There is little danger, however, of a shortage of water. If not another drop of rain should fall for a year there would still be sufficient water in the lake to meet the city's normal demand for that period of time, Mr. Preston said.

The B. C. Electric Railway may be forced to use steam power at the reserve station, Brentwood, instead of hydro-electric energy, owing to the reduced volume of water at Jordan River, it was learned yesterday, but such a development would not interfere with the efficiency of service in any way.

CHICAGO WELCOMES FLYING NAMESAKE

U.S. WORLD AVIATORS ARE ENTHUSIASTICALLY RECEIVED
Crowds Stand Barchheaded as Planes Alight, and City Tenders the Visitors Public Banquet

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—First of elites to greet her winged namesake, Chicago today took Lieutenant Lowell Smith and his world circling flier to her bosom, stood with bared head while the planes fleetly unraveled more of the red, white and blue thread they have spun around the globe, gave them great ovations as humble homage and tonight tendered them food and drink at a public banquet. From the moment Lieutenant Smith and his flagplane Chicago completed the hop from Dayton to Maywood airport at 12:55, daylight saving time, he, with his companion pilots, Lieutenant Erik Nelson, in the New Orleans, and Lieutenant Leigh Wade, in the Boston II, received all that the city could give them.

Tomorrow at 3 a.m., central time, they are scheduled to leave their way again to Omaha, an air distance of 440 miles.

To Represent President
SEATTLE, Sept. 15.—President Calvin Coolidge has officially designated Major-General Charles G. Morton, Ninth Corps area commander, the Presidio, San Francisco, as his representative at the reception of the American Army globe-encircling aviators on the completion of their trip at Sand Point aviation field, north-east of here, the Seattle Chamber of Commerce announced on receipt of a letter from C. Bascom Slemm, secretary to the President.

Australia Declines Vexed Question of Church Union

NO CLUE FOUND IN JANET SMITH CASE

CLOTHING FOUND IN FURNACE TO BE SUBMITTED TO TESTS
In spite of $2,000 Reward Offered for Guilty One, Nothing New Has Developed

VANCOUVER, Sept. 15.—With a standing offer made by Attorney-General Manson of $2,000 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Janet Smith, maid at the Baker home, Shaughnessy Heights, who was found dead on July 28 last, the police are still without a definite clue to the tragedy. It was thought the reward might induce the Chinese gardener attached to the Baker home to come forward and tell what he might know. So far he has not done so. Police officials held another consultation today, but it is understood no arrest or drastic action is imminent.

Meanwhile, a Vancouver merchant deeply interested in the case has offered an additional reward for the solution of the crime, and this, it is believed, may still further be increased by the Scottish societies, which have been very active in the probe.

The remains of garments found in the furnace on Friday will be subjected to microscopic and chemical tests in order to discover whether they carry bloodstains.

The rumor that the girl was found dead in a party dress is dispelled by the fact that both inquests showed the body clothed in the ordinary denim garments worn by Miss Smith when at work.

FLAMING GASOLINE TERRIFIES PEOPLE

SHEET OF FIRE SPREADS OVER MONTEREY BAY

California City Threatened by Explosion of Huge Tank, But Tide Flows Menace Out to Sea

MONTEREY, Cal., Sept. 15.—At 4:10 o'clock this afternoon, a huge subterranean gasoline tank, in the heart of the area burned over in yesterday's fire, north of here, exploded, its blazing contents spreading over Monterey Bay and again threatening the town of Monterey.

The flaming gasoline spread over a circle roughly half a mile wide on the surface of the waters and burned up several fishing boats in its path as the tide bore it seaward. A crowd of fishermen manned the remaining boats and managed to navigate them to safety.

The sea of flame approached close to Monterey, and it was feared for a time that the town was doomed, as a brisk off-shore wind was blowing. Hundreds lined the shores, awed at the terrifying sight.

The tide bore the flaming sheet of gasoline seaward, however, and in half an hour after it began, it was burning itself out a half mile from shore. The tank, ripped open by the force of the explosion, continued to burn, but the field was clean swept of other inflammable property by yesterday's fire, and no spread of the flames was expected.

Whiskey Seller Fined
SASKATON, Sept. 15.—Too many people were flocking into the Neutral Cafe here, so the police followed. They arrested Emma Hayes, colored waitress, who was doing a roaring trade with small glasses of whiskey at fifty cents a "shot." Emma was fined $100 and costs.

Say School Curricula Should Be Practical

Success in Business Made by Many Without Educational Advantages, Say Centennial Church Speakers—Exodus of Native-Born and Employment of Foreigners Regarded as Significant Reflection on Economic Conditions Here

At the meeting held on Sunday afternoon in the Centennial Methodist Church some very interesting sidelights connected with the subject of school curricula were given by the speakers of the afternoon. The intention of those in charge of the meeting is to continue to hold these Sunday afternoon meetings throughout the winter, varying them somewhat so that lectures may be on the programme on some occasions and on other afternoons other forms of dealing with questions connected with the social and spiritual life of the community may be introduced.

In the absence of Mr. T. Menzies, ex-M.P.P., the chair was occupied by Mr. R. E. Collins, recording steward of the church, who has taken a very active part in the initiation of these meetings.

Councillor F. Simpson, of Saanich, alluded to the fact that many men who were making a success in business had not had great advantages in the way of education in the schools. He sometimes wondered what would have been the result had these men had the added advantages of education. He felt that much of the high school education of the present day was lost in after life. Then again, the cost of education was too great, and in this connection he made the suggestion that at least the Western Provinces might use and use the same text books, thus lightening the load.

The essentials should, he thought, receive more attention in connection with the training. He stated, quoting that of the young men who took a course in the agricultural colleges, only 8 per cent came back and made a living off the land.

It was a lamentable fact that this country with its tremendous resources was obliged to bring in foreigners to occupy the land while the Canadian-born left the country.

Patriotic Songs
Councillor Simpson advocated the teaching of political economy in the schools. There should be real patriotism taught the youth, and in this connection he advocated the teaching of patriotic songs in connection with the musical course that should be given. No difference where they might come from or what love there was still for the old land which might have been the place of birth of many, there should be inculcated in the young a pride in Canada, the land where they lived and made their homes.

Mr. B. C. Nicholas explained that he was taking the place of Mr. Carl Penderay, who had intended to speak upon the subject of what business expanded of the schools. He did not feel that he could deal with the subject as intended, but gave some views with regard to education. He pointed out that some of the most outstanding leaders in the line of business of the largest kind had been men who had had little more than the fundamentals taught them in the schools. When all was said, business demands in young men character and the ability to use the knowledge that had been imparted for the development along the lines of business.

Qualities entered every largely into the matter from the standpoint of the businessmen. Integrity and courage were essential if young men were to succeed.

Cost of Education

On the part of business there was sometimes a criticism of the cost of education. The most precious thing was education and he felt that there was not much justice in the criticism of the cost. When $12,000,000 was spent at the Government vendors for liquor, should there be much criticism if a few millions were spent on education? Should there be criticism either when it is taken into account that tremendous sums were spent on horse racing? The greatest asset of the country was its youth.

Civilization had seen the wreck of the world during the past few years. The present generation could not read the world to its former position. The next generation would have to grapple with that question. It was essential, therefore, that the coming generation be equipped as fully as possible for it by mental and moral training.

Navy's Needs

Commander Beard, R.C.N., was accorded a hearty reception when he came to outline what the requirements of the navy were in the matter of educational training. He said that when all was said the navy was just a combination of people who had to be trained along special lines in no small way. The training was of a technical character as far as the training strictly for the navy was concerned.

There was a great deal of misunderstanding with respect to the work. Ninety per cent of the training of the navy was for preservation and not for killing. The latter part of the work was a small part of it. The protection of trade was the thing that was in view.

In the work that there was in hand here boys were drawn from all parts of the country, and they were for the most part good boys. He outlined the different duties demanded of these boys in training for the navy. A great part of this was of a technical nature and was for the benefit of the nation only. In view of this fact it was only natural that the nation as a whole should bear the cost of this training.

State's Share

Mr. J. Hinchliffe, M.P.P., dealt with the question of what the state should do in the matter of education. Viewed in the abstract there was an ideal education. He was not in a position to say what that should be, but if it could be evolved there arose the further question as to how far the state should pay for this. Sooner or later the state would be called upon to face this issue.

At the same time it was impossible for the state to give an ideal education, as it could never give the moral education that was so important in this ideal education. The speaker referred in this connection to the fact that under the statutes of British Columbia the state refused the giving of education in religion.

Religious Education
Later, in reply to questions that were submitted, Mr. Hinchliffe pointed out that it seemed almost impossible to get to a point of agreement in the Province as to what religious education should consist of in the schools. The present trend of thought went to show that if one differed with the church to which one belonged, the tendency was to establish a new religious denomination.

Whatever was agreed upon as being the part of the state to give instruction in there should be an understanding that everyone should have the same right and equal opportunity to obtain it.

L. & L. GLACIER MAKES PROGRESS STEADILY

Mr. Frank Breeze Has Returned From Stewart and Visits the City

Mr. Frank Breeze, well-known mining man, who is interested in the L. & L. Glacier property at Stewart, was in the city yesterday. He has just returned from the North, where work is being carried on in connection with this property. He says that everything in the Stewart Camp has been of a most promising character this summer and the camp has been making good progress.

On the property with which he is identified, the ore body was located up the mountain, and in order to prove up the body, work was started on driving a tunnel in at one hundred feet below the original showing. This work is in progress, and is being carried along with as much expedition as possible and with good prospects of success.

The property is located about four miles from a wagon road, and a good trail leads up to the works.

Gibbon's Garden Falls Into Decay

"While in Switzerland recently, I paid a visit to Lausanne to see what it contained of Gibbon," says a writer in The Times. "The result was a feeling of shame and disappointment. A large bank has now replaced the hotel which, until three or four years ago, occupied part of the site of his retreat on the Leman Lake. Gibbon at least did duty as a monument under the title of the Hotel Gibbon."

"The famous garden in which, to quote from his autobiography, he took several turns in a covered walk of acacias on the day or rather night, of June 27, 1787, to commemorate his departure from the vast labours of the Decline and Fall, in a state of lamentable confusion, overgrown with weeds, and strewn with the refuse of recent building construction. No memorial is in evidence to record the fact that in this city our greatest historian, probably the greatest historian of all time, lived and worked for many years."

"Cannot something be done, some national effort be made, to do justice to ourselves by honoring this great one of our race? If the work were taken in hand immediately a considerable portion of Gibbon's garden might yet be acquired and permanently enclosed, perhaps the most fitting memorial to his connection with the place and of his own immortal work."

FINES REACH NEARLY THOUSAND DOLLARS

Classification of Chinese Under Arbitrary Test as to Whether Onlookers or Players

As a result of the raid on the premises known as the Dai Fat Club, in Chinatown, the city is richer by $950 taken in fines assessed against the seventy-seven who were in the place when raided on Saturday night. The inmates of the club were divided on representations made by Mr. W. C. Moresby into two classes and accordingly the fines inflicted were differentiated. The one class comprised those admitted to be persons who had gathered for the purpose of gambling and the other came under the heading of curious persons who gathered in the place largely because they had nowhere else in particular to go.

In order to avoid the lengthy process of attempting to prove by evidence just what the motives of the several persons were, a unique method was adopted and carried out by the chief of police and members of his force and Mr. W. C. Moresby, counsel for the Chinamen.

Three Dollar Limit
For classification purposes it was decided to accept as those having gambling in their minds all who had $3 and upwards in their possession when searched at the police station. Those having less than $3 were placed in the class of simple onlookers.

The result of this separation of the seventy-seven was that forty-one came under the class of onlookers about the place, while the other thirty-six under this arbitrary method of separating them fell under the classification of gamblers.

Magistrate Jay, upon a plea of guilty being put in, fined the thirty-six at the rate of $15 each and the other forty-one at the rate of $10 each.

Idle Chinamen
In making a plea on behalf of his clients, Mr. Moresby called the attention of the magistrate to the fact that there were about 300 idle Chinamen in the city at present. The only place these men had to congregate was about Fan Tan Alley. There were three tables of fan tan in progress at this place and there would, he thought, be about twelve players at each table. The remaining men who were about were without money and were there because they had nothing else to do. He therefore asked that there be discrimination made with respect to these men. Not more than 25 per cent of them would be able to pay the fine in any event. These fines would have to be met by friends of theirs.

Chief Fry told of the conditions that were met with by the police in making entrance into the place. It had been carefully guarded and there had been barriers of all kinds to keep out the police, and guard against surprise. When they got in the occupants were destroying lottery tickets and some were thrust out through the bars of the windows.

It turned out that two of those taken had nothing in their pockets, while fourteen had less than a dollar. The arbitrary division under the $3 test strangely enough tallied with the figures as given by Mr. Moresby in making an appeal for discrimination.

A bill establishing compulsory military service for all men has been approved in Constantinople.

CANADA AND A NAVY

Mr. E. M. MacDonald, Canada's Minister of Defence, has maintained that the Government of which he is a member is doing its best to create a public sentiment in favor of the establishment of a Canadian Navy. Whatever is being done cannot be gauged from the utterances of members of the Federal Government. They maintain a studied silence on the subject, and, indeed, seem anxious that it should not be raised. Mr. MacDonald is the only Minister of that Government, so far as we have been able to learn, who has ventured to enunciate a Canadian policy and in this respect he has said that "we want a navy of our own—Australia has set the example in that respect and we want to follow it." The Minister of Defence qualifies this by the statement that at present Canada is unable to have a navy because the railways constitute too heavy a drain on her resources. In other words, the insurance premiums on the maintenance of those resources which are being heavily drained will continue for the time being to be met by taxpayers other than our own.

Mr. MacDonald says Canada hopes to have a navy whenever conditions make it a pious hope, piously expressed. Its sincerity would be emphasized if Mr. MacDonald and his fellow ministers would put the question of a Canadian Navy in the forefront of their policies and do, as he says they are doing, namely, their best to create a sentiment favorable to the establishment of such a navy. That is exactly what the Government is not doing, in fact what it is studiously avoiding. Federal Ministers are going to and fro throughout the Dominion and everywhere and on every occasion the last thing they allude to is a Canadian Navy. The people of the Pacific Coast are not hoodwinked by pious utterances. They will believe in the Government's bona fides in the premises when there is a studied campaign to teach the people of the Dominion the doctrine of self respect in the matter of naval defence.

TREATIES WITH SOVIET

The fact that the recent treaties between Britain and the Union of Soviet Republics were not signed by the sovereign places them in a category where it is necessary that they should receive the consent of Parliament. This may or may not have been the object of Premier MacDonald in the course he pursued. Under British constitutional law it is a peculiar function of sovereignty to make treaties, leagues and alliances with foreign states or princes. The law of nations requires that it is essential to the validity of a treaty that it be made by the sovereign power for then it binds the whole community. In the British Empire this sovereign power, according to Todd's Parliamentary Government in England, is vested exclusively in the crown, acting upon the advice of its responsible ministers.

The situation regarding the Russian pact is simply this. Had they been engagements or contracts in which the sovereign had entered no other power within the kingdom could legally delay, resist or annul them. The King's Ministers are responsible to Parliament for their participation in the conclusion of a treaty "derogatory to the honor and interests of the nation." Nevertheless the constitutional power of Parliament in respect to treaties is limited. Todd explicitly states that the formal sanction or ratification by parliament, as a condition of their validity, is not required. It has the power to give or withhold its sanction to those parts of a treaty that require legislative enactment to give it force or effect. Either House, too, has the right to express to the crown, by means of an address, its opinion in regard to any treaty, or part of a treaty, that has been laid before parliament. If either House disapproves of a convention or treaty, it can visit the ministers of the crown who are responsible for the same with censure or impeachment.

In the matter of the Russian pact it is evident that before they can be implemented there must be legislative action and for that reason they will be subjected to the fullest discussion in Parliament. Because these pacts have not been signed in the name of the sovereign, they can be altered or annulled. It has been customary in recent years to lay treaties before parliament, but the prerogative of the crown in this particular has not been abandoned. Premier MacDonald might have made these treaties with the Union of Soviet Republics, secured the signature of the sovereign and then refused to submit them to Parliament until after they had been ratified. This would probably have suited the viewpoint of his most radical supporters, but it would not have received the sanction of public opinion. To the credit of the British Premier it must be admitted that he did not have the pacts signed by the sovereign, which means that they must be ratified by Parliament. That was the best course he could have pursued, for now the whole matter can be threshed out in Parliament and it bids fair to prove a culminating episode in the career of the MacDonald Government.

FAULTY DIET

One authority says that doctors are recommending the consumption of whole wheat bread instead of the white variety because it is the most readily available source of certain vitamins which in these latter years have been found to be essential to the maintenance of health. Wheat, as used in white bread, is deprived of its germ and fails to supply any vitamins. It is perhaps a mistaken notion that the world tends to grow healthier as time advances. There is undoubtedly a diminution in the prevalence of infectious disorders effected through medical science and better sanitation, but when the general health of communities is examined it is fairly obvious that there are more people going to the doctor than ever before. That this should be the case is undoubtedly largely due to faulty diet. This may not be reflected in the mortality rate but it is emphasized by minor departures from health—by rheumatism, indigestion, and very possibly through more serious disorders such as cancer.

Faulty diet may be due to ill choice by the consumer, but it is due also to lack of adequate supervision of the preparation of foods. Government analysts are often lax, or else their authority is not great enough and it is not being kept up to date with the discoveries of medical science. If any clear fact has been discovered in recent years respecting diet it seems to be that white bread, because of its lack of vitamins, has deleterious tendencies. That means that there should be a campaign to encourage the consumption of whole wheat bread, and in its conduct the doctors should take a prominent part in educating the public. Over and above this there should be an assurance that the wheat from which whole meal is made are carefully dried before being sent for grinding. Experience has proved that the use of good whole meal bread has tended to abolish among its users the consumption of patent pills and health salts. It does away, too, with the use of thousands of gallons of medicinal paraffine. What is wanted in respect to all diet is some authoritative lead and this should be given by the medical fraternity.

TAXATION QUESTION

It is claimed by some that a government exists for taxation purposes more than anything else. This is, of course, said in derision, but it is an essential duty of governments to collect taxes and it is no less a duty of authority to make the incidence of taxation not act as a blight on a country's progress. A government, presumably, should have a definite policy in the matter of taxation. Where there are to be reforms there should be able to bring them about without extraneous assistance. All governments have in their employ those who, through experience, should be regarded as taxation experts, yet we find the Federal Government wanting to establish a new body to be known as the Tax Advisory Board. Provision was to have been made so that this board would be comprised of a chairman to draw $10,000 a year and of two commissioners each to draw $7,000 per annum. Such a board would have had a staff and probably would have cost the country up to $50,000 a year when operating. The proposal was that this board should conduct an extensive inquiry into taxation methods both in the Dominion and abroad. Its purpose was purported to be to advise the government on methods of taxation. This meant, in every probability, that it was to devise new sources of revenue to make up for the effects due to the tariff reductions effected by the Liberal Government. Such opposition developed in the House of Commons from the Conservatives to this proposal that it was withdrawn. The fact that it should have been put forward, however, illustrates the extremes to which the Government will go to provide lucrative posts for its favorites.

In Britain some years ago the question of the abolition of Grand Juries dropped out owing to the fact that these have been temporarily suspended during the war. As a result, however, of the advice of the Judges the powers of Grand Juries were restored unimpaired. They are regarded as a vital safeguard of liberty. Without them a corrupt government could tamper with the administration of justice for political purposes. Grand Juries are essential as a safeguard because they can throw out bills of indictment vindictively preferred, or can on their own initiative (except in certain misdemeanors) make presentments in cases where prosecutions were improperly stifled or not preferred. This is a summary of their usefulness and necessity as put forward in Britain.

The Free State Government has advanced $1,150,000 to relieve the housing shortage in Ireland. The money was paid, however, by the

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

The sanguinary and predatory philosophers of Germany, who were principally responsible for the late war, are still Duke and Duchess of York, before the death of Queen Victoria and the accession of King Edward to the throne, they made a six months' tour in 1901, visiting Australia, where they opened the first Parliament of the Commonwealth. They travelled in the Orphir, and were accompanied by four British warships, the little fleet making an imposing sight as it journeyed round the world. It was on this day 1901 that the Orphir, with its royal passengers, called at Quebec, en route back to England. The harbor was in fête, the ships gay with flags, while the buildings in the old city were bedecked with colors. Thousands watched the approach of the vessel, its escort now augmented by a French warship which had arrived at Quebec to add its welcome. It was the Duke of York's third visit to Quebec, the previous ones being in 1893 and 1901. Three days were spent in the ancient capital. The departure was made in four trains, for in addition to the members of the suite and the servants the party carried its own horses and carriages. The royal train was the first to be equipped with telephones. The Duke and Duchess went West to the Pacific Coast, visited Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria. They sailed for home from Halifax on October 21.

There is some comfort for comparatively weak nations in that qualification, and there is further comfort for them in another observation. The United States is in no particular need of additional territory at the present time. When there are a couple of hundred millions of people within the national boundaries, then the time to act will have arrived. "After that, if there remained any manhood in our mixed race of descendants, they would surely do so."

Consequently the United States has to add about eighty-five millions of people to its present mixed population before the time will have come to test the mettle of the couple of hundred millions. There is also some comfort to be extracted from the reflection that what with restrictive immigration laws and other measures for keeping the population within reasonable economic bounds, a considerable number of years must elapse before the nation will be under the necessity of extending its boundaries either to the north or to the south or to grab dominions beyond the seas. And when that time comes there may be no Admiral Rodgers to incite the people to take sanguinary and predatory measures. Furthermore, we doubt whether there are many people in the United States today who share the views of Admiral Rodgers. He is still, furthermore, in the course of the next fifty years there may be such a tremendous accumulation of wealth in the United States that the cupidity of other predatory nations may be aroused and all the energies and the resource of the nation of mixed races may be taxed to defend the treasure within its present territory.

Prime Minister MacDonald, it appears, although a Socialist in principle and a communist up to a certain point, is a comparatively rich man. At least we would consider ourselves comparatively rich if we were in his position and cease from troubling readers of The Colonist with our daily column of rambling comment. The Prime Minister is in receipt of the income from an investment of $150,000. He did not earn the money; it was presented to him by a friend and admirer. Of course it was merely a coincidence that that friend and admirer was created a baronet by the Crown on the recommendation, doubtless, of the Prime Minister.

Governments which preceded the Labor Government were charged with selling titles and of using the proceeds from the sale of such titles for political purposes. Apparently the proceeds from the sale of this particular baronetcy were not applied to any political purpose. They were applied to a more useful and commendable purpose; but that fact will not prevent the political enemies of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald from making sinister charges against that gentleman. Indeed, we are told that a political scandal of the first magnitude has been uncovered.

It is only fair to give the explanation of the Prime Minister. He says he really is not absolute owner of the stock from which he derives an assured income. It is only his in a technical sense. He was presented with a motor car in the first instance, and told the generous donor that he could not afford to maintain and operate such a luxury as a motor car. Then this difficulty was overcome by adding a gift of $50,000 to the original present.

All of which seems to be very plausible, but if politicians are given an opportunity to assail the reputation of their opponents they are fairly sure to make the most of such an opportunity. We expect that the most will be made of the flaw that appears to have been discovered in the armor of the First Minister, and that there will be a terrible to-do about those two generous gifts. Indeed, we should not be surprised if even some of the political supporters of Mr. MacDonald may want to know something more on the subject.

The republic of Germany appears to be a very different political institution from the Russian Union of Soviet Socialist states. The Russians killed their former ruler in a cold-blooded and brutal manner. The German republicans are supporting their former ruler, now in nominal exile, in a very handsome, even in a very generous manner. The fact has just been made public that since the day Mr. William Hohenzollern cast away his crown and fled from the pursuing hosts of his enemies he has received eight million dollars to help him to live in the manner to which he had been accustomed. The money was paid, however, by the state of Prussia, not by the whole of the republic of Germany. Possibly the republic of Germany has given up all thought of re-establishing a monarchy, but it is quite possible that the State of Prussia may have a slumbering idea that it may yet have some use for the former Kaiser.

Porridge and Science

Sir—I am very much afraid that someone has been pulling Mr. R. B. D.'s leg on the matter of the scientist and porridge. No scientist he (R. B. D.) is indignant if he thinks the said doctor advised a breakfast of cod liver oil instead of oatmeal. No, no; the point was that oatmeal is a great deal better than cod liver oil. In fact, it is in addition to a plate of porridge, each child should be trained to ask for a daily ration of live oil, and in addition to a plate of porridge and bad teeth. The scientist was at great pains to point out that this was no theory, but an absolute, established fact, proven without doubt on the Sunday playing. The writer wonders why the music should cost $147. Then he says we had 20 in the orchestra, and that we had their own music and were paid for playing. The money spent for music was for the ladies and gentlemen singing in the choir, numbering over 350, and seven different pieces were sung, so you can figure how many sheets were needed. We have the music on hand and it can be used on future occasions. The services of the above ladies and gentlemen were voluntary, and to have an affair of this kind in the open is impossible, past experience has proven this.

My advice to some of our citizens is to do more and talk less. Some of our citizens who think so much of the Jubilee Hospital contributed only 19 cents each, indeed, 1,800 people out of the 4,000 in attendance at the concert did this. The committee's object to raise funds was well justified. The only trouble was we did not receive as much as the services rendered were entitled to.

If any more information is needed I would ask the critic of the concert to kindly call upon me instead of writing to the papers without full knowledge of details.

RETURNS MONEY, GETS SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Barnes Case in Which City Seeks to Recover Relief Funds Paid Completed in Court

The Henry W. Barnes case in the city police court was concluded yesterday morning with the making of restitution to the city of the money that had been obtained by the accused as relief funds in 1922, after which the accused pleaded guilty to the offence and was allowed out on suspended sentence.

The case has been before the court for some time, and was repeatedly remanded in order to obtain additional evidence. The accused was charged with having pleaded destitution in 1922 when he was not destitute.

Far from making an effort, however feeble for the betterment, he remains supine and calmly states that he was not to be expected that in another generation, if you please, the lessons in hygiene which he has included in the curriculum of the Indian schools will have been fruit.

Mr. Ditchburn has shown in his answers a paucity of knowledge of the sanitary and medical requirements of these unfortunate people who are his wards and a lack of sympathy for their progress and well-being as a people which speak ill for Dominion Government officialdom. He attacks me in a scurrilous way for speaking out about conditions I have recently met which would arouse pity and charitable action among the heathen. Permit me, Mr. Editor, to protest in your journal that this public servant has attacked me in this connection. Are we living in Russia that Dominion officials may attack private citizens?

The one and only answer the Dominion Government can give is prompt and official action. Since when are they inviolable to criticism? Let me repeat that the Indian Department shows itself ill fitted for and unsympathetic towards the betterment of the Indian people who are its wards; that conditions exist today which will cause waste and disease tomorrow—not confined to their own people.

G. D. MANNING,
Sidney, B.C., September 12, 1924.

Constitutional Methods

Sir—I have read with much interest your leading article entitled "An Ultimatum," but I must confess that it left me rather puzzled.

To the case of the Government "carrying out its decrees," but I have always understood that it is a basic principle of parliamentary government that it is Parliament which "decrees," and that the duty of the executive Government is to give effect to those decrees.

As you say, "it is the duty of responsible Government to be responsible for its actions," but you omit to say who it is responsible to. Is it responsible to the Legislature, or, as your article seems to imply, only to itself?

You say that Mr. Woodward is "wholly wrong in trying to prevent the Government carrying it out by intimidation." Would it be wrong for Mr. Woodward to say on the floor of the House that if the Government persists in its action he will resign in order to test public opinion? Such things have been said in the Imperial Parliament.

To the publicity that is objectionable? Ought Mr. Woodward to confine his protests to the secrecy of a party caucus? After all, Mr. Woodward is responsible as well as the Government, with just this difference—the Government is directly responsible to the Legislature of which Mr. Woodward is a member, while Mr. Woodward is directly responsible to his constituents—who have a right to know his attitude on public questions.

The cutting or leaving of timber on the Capilano watershed is probably of small importance except to Vancouver, but the fact that a member of the Legislature says publicly on public questions what he himself thinks, not what a party caucus tells him to say, is a thing of very great importance to the whole Province.

I am no politician, and my knowledge of constitutional methods comes only from books, which may explain why I like Mr. Woodward, an "unaware of methods of constitutional procedure." To me his action seems entirely constitutional, and is entirely in line with the political atmosphere of the Province. What, then, are the methods that he might have adopted and in what way would such methods have helped?

Scouts and Scouting

Contributed by the Victoria Boy Scout Association

The annual indoor sports for Boy Scouts will be held at the Willows track on Saturday, September 27, at 2 o'clock. The Cub events being held for the first time on a separate date, will take place on October 11 at the Horse Show Building, the Willows.

All arrangements for Scout sports are entirely in the hands of the local executive, no active Scouters taking any part in the programme, and the usual bun-fund being given by the ladies of the executive.

The programme is as follows: 100 yards, 12 yards and under; 100 yards, under 14; 100 yards, open; 220 yards, under 14; 220 yards, open; 440 yards, open; 880 yards, open; 1 mile, open; relay race, team of four, 220, 440, 220 and 440 yards; tug-of-war, open. Points 5-2-1.

Scoutcraft events—Friction, fire-lighting, first aid race—broken thigh and jaw-bone; water boiling, lashing and four spars, square lashed. Points 7-1-2.

Meetings of the local executive and Scouters' Council were held this week, the chief topic for discussion of both times being the land sports. The local executive has been strengthened by the addition of Lieutenant-Colonel Lorne Ross, D.R.O., to their number.

St. Mary's Wolf Cub Pack is camping at Telegraph Bay this week by courtesy of the B. C. Electric, under the leadership of Cubmaster Hilliard, assisted by A. C. M. Tolson and Cub Instructor Arthur Riark.

Fairfield Troop of outdoor Scouts (S.M. Cecil Frampton) hope to have at least another two months of week-end camping before completing their records.

Very gratifying to all interested in the Scout movement must be the record made by our two Victoria Scouts, Patrol Leader Miller, of St. Mary's Troop, and McKicking, of Third Troop, while guests of the American Scouts at Camp Parsons. McKicking won the 50 yards run.

At the time of this relief being given, it was shown in evidence that the accused had about $132 in the bank to his credit, but it was stated by Mr. Stuart Henderson, who acted for the accused, that he had debts exceeding $200 at the time.

proved by the fact that during the last 20 years the people have collected $45,000,000 from the timber holders and industry in rents and royalties.

By collecting one-third of their total annual revenue from the lumber industries the British Columbia public are certainly doing a good stroke of business.

There is no more satisfactory type of capitalist to attract to a young country like British Columbia than the man who is prepared to invest money in the development of its natural resources.

The public has again shown its business acumen by pledging its good faith to a group of the most solid and patient timber investors in existence.

The present position is that the lumber industry is taxed to the utter-most, and that any further impost will undoubtedly force it into bankruptcy. Also the investors in our lumber are becoming very nervous indeed at the prospect of heavier levies.

If the public of British Columbia wish to stick to sound business principles they will avoid overtaxing their basic industry and disillusioning their investors.

A third of the public's income is dependent on the ability of its representatives to handle satisfactorily the present taxation situation in the lumber industry.

nicated by the Timber Industries Council of British Columbia.

CONTEST OPENS INN. OKANAGAN

Conservatives Fire First Guns Against Citadel of Newly Appointed Provincial Secretary at Pentiction

UNITED OPPOSITION FACES NEW MINISTER

Acting Premier Expresses His Indignation at Activity of Conservatives in Contesting Election

GLOWING reports of the opening meeting of the Conservative campaign in North Okanagan, held at Lumby on Saturday, have been received at the party headquarters in Victoria, and indications are that the contest will evolve into the closest and hardest fought political battle of the year.

Hon. J. D. MacLean, acting Premier in the absence of Hon. John Oliver in Ottawa, and Hon. W. H. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, left on yesterday afternoon's boat for the Mainland en route to North Okanagan and it has been stated that the entire available membership of the Oliver cabinet would lend its way to the disputed riding if in the charge of the Liberal campaign there thought it advisable.

Dr. K. C. MacDonald, the newly appointed Provincial Secretary, whose elevation to that portfolio has automatically thrown the North Okanagan riding open for the by-election which has been set for September 24, claims he is quite satisfied with the prospects for his return, and in telegram sent by him to his colleagues in Victoria anticipates no difficulty in duplicating the success of Premier Oliver in the by-election held recently in Nelson.

United Opposition

On the other hand, the Conservatives build much faith of victory on the enthusiastic demonstration in the riding last Thursday when Mr.
Arthur O. Cochrane was nominated, and pledged the support of all three candidates who opposed the Liberal Donald in the general election held last June. Mr. Cochrane is one of the most popular of the old-time citizens of the North Okanagan constituency, and he and his friends believe that he will be given support from the followers of the three candidates who were defeated by Dr.
MacDonald.

Mr. J. S. F. Toynie, M.P., federal Conservative organizer, who is vitally interested in the Yale by-election, is counted on to offset the activities of federal Liberals who believe that with federal issues looming in the background the protection sentiments of the Okanagan fruit-growers will lead them to vote for Mr. Cochrane.

In comparing the North Okanagan contest with that held in Nelson, it is pointed out that Dr. MacDonald is not the Premier and the three candidates who opposed him in the general election were not Labor men whose supporters usually vote the Liberal ticket when there is no Labor man in the field. The Conservatives also believe that the appeal of a cabinet minister will not carry as much weight as ordinarily, because as they see it, the election of a Conservative would hasten the ultimate downfall of the Liberal Government, in which case the cabinet ministers would be chosen from the Conservative ranks and not the Liberal.

The General Election

If results obtained in the last general election, so far as North Okanagan was concerned, can be taken as a criterion of present beliefs, Dr.
MacDonald is faced with anything but rosy prospects. In that campaign there were four candidates in the riding. Dr. MacDonald securing a substantial plurality over his leading rival. However, the total vote polled by any two of his opponents was greater than that which he received.
In the present occasion the Conservatives hope to amalgamate the support given last June to three candidates, behind one, Mr. Arthur Cochrane.

Reports from the Mainland state that the Liberals are basing their hopes of victory on six grounds.

First, they hold that residents of the interior are usually keen to be represented by a cabinet minister.

Second, Premier Oliver overcame a somewhat similar handicap in Nelson recently.

Third, the Premier's election cleared the political atmosphere and created a disposition on the part of the people to let the Government carry on without undue interference.

Fourth, the recent federal by-election victories in Quebec have greatly heartened the federal Liberals in their hopes of capturing the Yale seat, and will consequently cause them to throw themselves into the North Okanagan fight with rejuvenated energy in order that their chances of success at Yale be not weakened.

Fifth, Hon. Dr. J. H. King, Federal Minister of Public Works, is in the Province and is taking a keen interest in the North Okanagan contest.

Sixth, the importance of the freight and express rates fight waged by Premier Oliver is being realized more intensely.

Minister Indignant

Hon. Dr. MacLean, acting Premier, interviewed before he boarded yesterday's boat for Vancouver, waxed indignant that the Conservative Party should have offered opposition to the return of Dr. MacDonald in North Okanagan. He thought the new Provincial Secretary should have been confirmed in his new position by acclamation, and characterized the present action shown by the Conservatives as "unreasonable."

"There is no issue involved in the by-election," Dr. MacLean said. "The Government was returned to power only three months ago and since then no new policy has been announced.
Besides, Dr. MacDonald has been elected in three successive elections and only recently received a large plurality. It is nothing short of an outrage that Dr. MacDonald should be called upon to fight a by-election now."

Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, who has recently returned from North Okanagan, contradicted reports that Conservative and independent voters in the riding would unite in their opposition to Dr. Mac-Donald. In regard to Dr. MacDonald's appointment to a cabinet position, Mr. Pattullo said that the portfolio was conferred on him in recognition of his long public and party service.

CAPILANO DISPUTE DEVELOPS IMPASSE

CAUSE IS OVERSHADOWED BY EFFECT PRODUCED

Cabinet Must Decide Limits of Power Wielded by Solid Vancouver Bloc in Timber Controversy

All has not been said or done in connection with the proposed sale of a section of timberland in the Capila-no watershed from which the city of Vancouver draws its water supply, according to talk at the Parliament Buildings yesterday.

The attitude, adopted by Mr.
Charles Woodward, one of the Liberal members for Vancouver, who issued an ultimatum to the Government giving it the choice of either abandoning its intention of selling the timberland or accepting his resignation and also the open disapproval of the Liberal bloc of Vancouver City, have caused intense apprehension in the Cabinet, and resulted in the cause of the dispute becoming overshadowed by the effect produced and the effect threatened.

It was said yesterday that the question will constitute a subject of discussion by the Cabinet immediately following Premier Oliver's return to the Capital, and from statements made, the members of that body are not all agreed upon the course to be pursued.

The big issue to be faced is not whether the Capilano timberland shall be sold, but whether the solid Vancouver bloc is to possess the self-imposed power of veto over actions of the Provincial Cabinet which concern constituencies represented by the members of the bloc.

It's a case of a show-down, and some of the ministers insist that there be plain dealing and no side-stepping.
It is considered a very real issue and one that must be settled once and permanently.

They feel that if Mr. Woodward and his colleagues can force the hand of the Government on a timber deal, they can do the same on any other question, and consequently there is no telling where their power, if allowed to go unchecked, will end. Also, it is felt that if the Government has to consult every private member of the House before it takes any action involving that member's constituency, then the established method of Government in British Columbia is due for failure.

in his fifth year there. He has spent twenty-seven years in the West.

for Toronto to attend the Mission Board sessions. He will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Thelma Sipprell, who is going to complete

NEW MAP PICTURES SOUTH OF PROVINCE

An interesting map of Southern British Columbia, covering from lat-tude 51 to the international boundary and including the Dominion railway belt, has just been issued by the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa. In the railway belt area the disposition of land is shown, also the timber berths and grazing inasgranted, while forest reserves, national parks and Indian reserves are indicated clearly.

A further striking feature of the map is the showing, by means of red coloring, of data regarding the natural resources of each locality, thus affording a bird's-eye view of the principal industries of each district.

ROYAL OAK FAIR DRAWS BIG CROWD

WARD FIVE, SAANICH, SHOW IS OUTSTANDING SUCCESS

Nearly Six Hundred Entries Made in Different Classes—Standard
Excellent Throughout

ROYAL OAK, Sept. 15.—A record number of entries from enthusiastic exhibitors, ideal weather, and a splendid crowd of residents in attendance, all combined to make the second annual exhibition of garden produce and women's work, conducted by Ward Five, Saanich, under the auspices of Royal Oak Women's Institute, an outstanding success. Royal Oak Hall, in which the event was held on Saturday, was a scene of exhibits in each of eight sections that won the admiration of the judges and the public alike, all uniting in the opinion that the show was to the fore among the Fall exhibitions for 1924. With a prize list of 129 classes, nearly 600 entries were made. A feature of the exhibit was the excellent standard maintained in all sections.

The domestic science section, which was more particularly the work of the Institute ladies, displayed excellent exhibits in each and every class, making the work of the judges, Mrs. J. D. Gordon, of Victoria, a very difficult one. Particular mention should be made of a very beautiful crocheted quilt, exhibited by Mrs. E. Beale, and a lovely silk patchwork quilt by Mrs. Whitehead. A pair of embroidered sheets and pillow cases to match, made by Mrs. H. Thompson, won the admiration of the crowds who were present. All of these were made by Royal Oak ladies, and were not for competition.

Not to be outdone by the ladies' sections, the men presented an exhibition of vegetables and flowers and plants and fruit that would compare favorably with any other show. A display of flowers by Messrs. J. H. and H. C. Oldfield, of Elk Lake, was the cause of admiring comment throughout the day.

Opening Ceremonies
Reeve Macdonald, introduced by President Lehman, opened the event at three o'clock, and complimented the ladies of the R.O.W.I. and the committee in charge of the exhibit upon what he termed "a marvelous display from a Ward which was, for the greater part, without a water supply."

Mr. C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, secretary of the Farmers' Institutes of B.C., called upon to speak, declared that the exhibit left him wondering at the energy displayed by those responsible for the exhibit, and stated that if further proof were required of the extreme suitability of this particular section to produce fruit, flowers and seeds of the highest quality, the present exhibit amply supplied it.

Winners of the several competitions during the day were Mrs. F. W. Towns, of Elk Lake, for the best W. Heale, cushion, and M. J. Allison, cake.

An interesting postal exhibit was in charge of the local postmaster, Mr. Frank Corry, who presented a display which proved enlightening to the local users of the rural mail service. Different methods of parcel-posting goods for postal delivery were shown, while a varied collection of stamps was in evidence.

The school children of Royal Oak presented a splendid display of plasticine modelling, while the children's section itself was replete with excellent examples of baking and fancy work.

Should a Woman Wear Herself Out Even for Her Family?

The new "Blue-Bird" means freedom from drudgery and time for other things. By the simple act of inserting a plug in an electric light socket your washing problems are a thing of the past.

The clothes are placed in the Blue-Bird tub, the switch is turned, and in from twelve to fifteen minutes the rocking action has flushed the hot suds and water through the pores of the clothes literally thousands of times, without once rubbing them, tearing them, or in any manner injuring them. Harmlessly, without wear and tear, without abuse of any sort, the clothes are cleaned in a manner unknown to those who have not washed by this absolutely ideal process.

May we demonstrate the Blue-Bird in your own home? Phone 1670, and our representative will call at your home at your convenience.

At Pierre's and Sherry's and the other smart Park Avenue restaurants one sees frocks of pale French grey silk crepe, the smart Rehoux felt hat, plain pumps, simpler gloves and even sheer stockings.

Grey is the new color, so new that it is extremely fashionable and also because it is so new not yet general and popular. One sees taupe, mouse and stone grey occasionally, but the smartest shade is the very clear and delicate French shade. One sees it on exclusively smart women at Pierre's and Sherry's in wool suits or silk crepe frocks and with them grey or black felt hats of the new wrap-around shape, grey suede or black pumps and very sheer grey stockings.

NEWS OF THE SPORTING WORLD

Favorites and Short Prices Rule at Races

Heavily-Backed Thoroughbreds Victorious in Nearly Every Event—North Shore Surprises by Finishing Second and Paying $25.35 for Place—Molter Figures in Money in Each Race

THE favorites were running true to form yesterday at the Willows track, with the natural result that short prices were the rule in nearly every event on the programme. The biggest price paid during the matinee was $25.35, the sum that North Shore rewarded its backers in the sixth event, the thoroughbred coming in second and paying that figure for place. The winner in the same race was Freddie Fear, which paid $13.75 on the nose, $9.10 place, and $4.25 show. The only other liberal price paid was $9.40, which was the figure that Frank Boyd, winner in the opening event, returned to those that picked him to win.

Molter, one of the most popular jockeys on the track, covered himself with honor yesterday when he piloted two winners, two seconds and three thirds, piloting in each of the seven races horses that figured in the money. It is not often that a rider succeeds in accomplishing this feat. Powell was the only other jockey to guide more than one horse to victory, having brought in two winners during the afternoon.

Frank Boyd, noted the favorite, Babe Ruth, out of the premier position, and paid the sum of $9.40 on the nose. Babe Ruth got the lead, but was overtaken by the winner, the event being hotly contested. Third place went to Carpathian, with Molter up, which rewarded its backers with $3.15 show money.

Blond Buddy Wins
Blond Buddy, hot favorite, was an easy winner in the next competition. UConn looked dangerous at times, but was unable to cut down the victor's advantage. Ucan paid $6.95 place, and $3.05 show. Molter piloted Thelma C into show money, the thoroughbred having $3.45. Two horses, Blond Buddy and Monopoly, displayed evidence of wanting to show speed at the tape, the latter horse breaking away three times, while the winner once took a little exercise before Starter Donovan got the ponies away.

The third race proved an easy victory for the heavily-backed Blimkameen Boy. Louvain secured the lead at the start, and retained it for most of the course, but tired near home. Blimkameen Boy, forking in front and winning by a safe margin. Louvain came in second, while the third to finish was Calgary Stampede, which beat Yorkshire Relish out of the show money.

Jack Ledl captured the honors in the fourth race, overtaking the lead secured by Duke Adams, which finished second and paid $2.25 place and $1.55 show. The winner rewarded with $8 on the nose. Third place went to Article X.

Long Shots Outside Money
The three favorites in the fifth event finished in the treasury division, with Lamated, the most heavily backed, coming through with a pretty kick. Spirea pulled into second place on the home stretch, while show money was obtained by Olympian King, with Robert L. Owen running fourth in line. The prices were short.

Freddie Fear galloped home in a spectacular win in the sixth race, regaining and holding the lead that it once lost during the race. Freddie paid $13.75, the second highest price of the afternoon. North Shore (Hicks), a decided long shot, surprised by capturing second place, paying $25.35 place and $4.50 show. Cantleaver, hot favorite, beat Boerne out of third place.

Stroller stepped out and won the final race of the entertainment, defeating Bunny Ways and Little Buck, which finished second and third, respectively, and four other participants in the event. Little Buck had a nice lead at the start, but Stroller and Bunny Ways left Buck in third place. Bell Squirrel, one of the favorites, failed to come in the money.

Racing Results
First race—Outer Wharf Claiming Purse, $400; for three-year-olds and older; about five furlongs; Frank Boyd (Whittingham), won; $9.40; $2.45; $3.50. Babe Ruth (Zarelli), second; $2.35; $3.25. Car-

LADIES' DAY

Today will be observed as Ladies' Day at the Willows track. The Columbia Country Club invites all ladies to attend the racing this afternoon at the track. Ladies will be the guests of the association, and will be admitted to the grounds and grandstand at the Willows absolutely free of charge. A large number of the fair sex enjoy watching the ponies romp around the track, and with a good programme of events arranged for this afternoon, it is anticipated that the ladies will avail themselves of Ladies' Day at the Willows by turning out in large numbers.

pathian (Molter), third; $3.15. Time, 59.2.5. Also ran: Ann S. Miss Criton, Nas-tu-bags, Hinkle, Cicely Kay; scratched: Dark Ages, Linea.

Second race—Cordova Bay Purse, $400; for three-year-olds and older; one-half mile and twenty yards; Blond Buddy (Neal), won; $3.80; $3.65; $2.60. Ucan (Corbett), second; $6.95; $3.85. Thelma C (Molter), third; $3.45. Time, 59.1.5. Also ran: Shadow Spark, Jack Palne 2nd, Monopoly, Joe G. and Hamp. Scratched: Debtor and Snively.

Third race—Mt. Tolmie Claiming Purse, $400; for Western Canadian bred; three-year-olds and older; six and one-half furlongs; Blimkameen Boy (Louvain), won; $2.25; $2.45; $2.50. HUNTERS REPORT SCARCITY OF GAME

VERY FEW BIRDS KILLED IN OPENING OF SEASON

Deer Appears to Be Plentiful in All Districts, and Some Good Results Obtained—Maple Bay Touted

"Blue grouse are scarce, deer plentiful," that is the opinion of the hunters who have returned to Victoria from the district woods where they have been combing the hills since Saturday, the opening day of the current season. Judging by the slim bags brought in by at least a dozen hunters who came down from the Malahat district last night, that statement is correct.

Many of the hunters are of the opinion that on account of the extreme dryness, many of the birds have migrated to unknown parts and that a good day's rain is necessary before the birds will be found in large numbers. The average bag this year appears to be two or three, while many of the hunters have tramped the woods for two and three days without seeing birds or firing a shot. Deer appears to be plentiful in all districts.

According to reports from the many hunters that journeyed up to the Malahat and Shawanigan Lake districts, although very few birds were seen, grouse are there in good quantities and markings on the ground appear in almost every district. Several hunters who went up to Cobble Hill say that grouse are numerous, but are keeping themselves high up in the firs. One hunter reported that he got his limit after being out about two hours. Others, however, brought in only meagre bags.

The numbers of deer that were brought into the city yesterday, make it appear that this game is more plentiful than in former years. Most hunters report running into deer, but on account of the dryness of the ground dogs were of little use in following them. One man in the Sooke district counted about fifteen deer in one herd.

In the Maple Bay district game appears to be plentiful, and hunters report that they had fairly good results, but that mountain climbing had to be indulged in to find the birds. Salt

ENGLAND WINS CUP

OYSTER BAY, N.Y., Sept. 15.—England won the international six-metre yacht racing cup from America today by taking the seventh and final event of the series. The Britons scored four victories and the United States three.

The British triumph reversed the apparent final decision scored by the Americans on Saturday with a score of four to two. The British protested the race in which the American boat Dauphin had crossed the line first, and when protest was allowed by racing committee yesterday Dauphin was disqualified, Saturday's race being awarded to the British. Each team had then won three races, and the English reached the four necessary to win today.

Spring Island hunters report that birds are plentiful and some fine bags were brought in. Birds in and around Jordan River, according to Mr. J. H. McIlreene, secretary of the Lower Island Fish and Game Association, appear to be scarcer than in former years, although deer seem to be numerous.

Quite a number of American tourists went out over the week-end trying their luck. One car, which carried a Washington licence plate, pulled up in front of one of the hotels with two fine bucks, one with four points and the other with three.

The Forestry Department again wishes to impress upon the hunters the need for exercising extreme care with matches and fire on account of the dryness of the woods. Forest fires may be easily started that may cause great damage.

GOLFERS TO PLAY FOR CUP SATURDAY

SECOND HALF OF MATCH FOR
B. WILSON TROPHY

Twenty Members of Victoria Golf Club Will Cross to Seattle to Meet American Team

The second half of the team match between members of the Seattle Golf Club and members of the Victoria Golf Club for the Biggerstaff Wilson Cup will be played at Seattle next Saturday. The first half of the match was played at Oak Bay last Spring and resulted in a win for the Victoria Club players; the scores being: Seattle 29 1/2, Victoria 45 1/2.

Although some of the Victoria crack players, including A. V. Macan and Biggerstaff Wilson, will not be able to take part in the match, Mr. Goward, the Victoria Club captain, is getting a good, strong team together, including some of the best known players in the club, and it is expected a good fight will be made to prevent the Seattle Club from annexing the cup for good.

Seattle has already won two years in succession and should they overcome the lead of the local club on Saturday, the cup will become their property. A full list of all the players will be given out as soon as the team is complete.

At least twenty members of the Victoria Golf Club will participate in this contest. Captain Goward and the golfers that accompany him to Seattle are determined to bring the Biggerstaff Wilson trophy to British Columbia's capital city this year, and will do their very utmost to attain their objective.

OAK BAY WANDERERS WILL HAVE TWO TEAMS

Annual Meeting Brings Optimistic
Report—Mr. Curtis is Elected President—Many Players

Plans for the coming rugby season were thoroughly discussed at the annual meeting of the Oak Bay Wanderers Club, held last night in the offices of Gillespie, Hart & Todd. According to reports from the various members of the club, this season should be the best that has been experienced. Several players from other teams have signified their intention of playing under the colors of the last year's second position holders, and from the names submitted at the meeting one of the most formidable teams in the city should be formed.

It is the intention of the club to again enter a team in the senior and also one in the intermediate league. Last year, the first season which the club experienced, proved highly successful in both their entries. The senior team made a very commendable showing and ended the league in a second position, while the intermediate fifteen played great rugby throughout the year, being tied with the University School for premier berth only after three scoreless attempts were made to settle the championship. The showing which the team made against their more experienced opponents from Vancouver in the race for the provincial intermediate championships drew many splendid comments from the rugby followers here and on the mainland, and it is the intention of the club this year to make another determined effort to cop the British Columbia title.

Mr. R. F. Curtis was selected as president of the club. Mr. Curtis has always been a willing worker in the club's interest, and the meeting was unanimous in its selection for this office. Ronald Christy, last year's secretary-treasurer, was again the choice to fill that position. R. L. Parker will captain the senior fifteen, with Harold Colman as vice-captain. Hugh Beck and Ted Grubb were elected as captain and vice-captain for the intermediate team.

The following are some of the players that will be seen wearing the Wanderers' colors this year: Seniors—Parker, Colman, Walter Brynjolfsson, Allen, Christy, Pemberton, Tim Mattson, Nairn Robertson, Heck Goodacre, John Shaw, Money, Herman, Ross, Wilson, Wootton, Willis Gilmer, Davis and Grahame. Intermediates—Hugh Beck, Grubb, Officer, Bowker, Holland, Oliver, Jack Goodacre, Hicks, Miller, Carey, Wilson, R. and G. Westman, Mathewson.

The club will hold its first practice of the season on Saturday afternoon at the Cranmore Road grounds. All rugby players are invited to be on hand at 2:30.

Boxing Card Pleases Nanaimo Enthusiasts—Hobbs Outpoints Cumberland Pugilist

NANAIMO, Sept. 15.—A boxing tournament, held in St. John's hall, Saturday evening, saw some good mills. Mr. A. Davis acted as announcer, with Mr. T. Moore, as third man in the ring. The first bout, a three-round affair, was for 65 pounds, and the principals were Petrie and Charley, the latter winning on his showing in the third round.

Anderson and Thompson, 115 pounds, gave a good exhibition, Anderson forcing the fighting and getting the decision. Thompson was knocked to the floor in the second, and in the third, Anderson was strong and deserved to win.

White vs. Thompson, at 115 pounds, was a good match. Both fought well, and provided plenty of excitement. The bout ended in a draw. Two little fellows, at 65 pounds, were Townsend and Petrie, the former winning in the third, both previous rounds having been even.

A real fight developed in the 125-pound class, when Smiler Wilson met T. Sandland, the latter knocking out Wilson in the first round. Hobbs, of Nanaimo, vs. Larrigan, of Cumberland, at 125 pounds, was the best go of the night. Hobbs having the best of the fighting all the way, and gaining the decision. Another 125-pound bout was settled between Martin, of Cumberland, and Pollett, of Nanaimo, the award going to the Nanaimo man.

Mercer, of Chase River, defeated Knight, of Nanaimo (145 pounds). Sanford vs. Baird (85 pounds) resulted in a win for the former. Jones, of Cumberland, and Gropp, 2.

COLISEUM GETS THIEF OF BAGDAD, FAIRBANKS FILM

Douglas Fairbanks in "The Thief of Bagdad" will have its presentation in this city at the Coliseum (late Pantages) Theatre soon. It is a glorious fantasy of the Arabian Nights. A fanciful story of love and adventure laid in an imaginary world of fancy, and abounding in amazing happenings, or, as one scribe has put it, "unbelievable wonders," such as, in stance, as the Flying Carpet, the Winged Horse that flies through the clouds, and numerous other faber- gasting conceptions, actually brought to life. And for its presentation in this city "The Thief of Bagdad" will offer all the colorful atmospheric effects, a symphony orchestra trained by the composer of the music; full scenic and stage effects; a band of Arabian musicians, with the instru- ments of their native country, as well as a Mohammedan Prayer Man. When "The Thief of Bagdad" is shown here there will be brought into use all the latest inventions of motion pictures, including Edison's newest high-tension lamp, as well as the newly- invented silk and rubber screen. The latter device holds the illumination, with less reflection, providing a clearer picture than heretofore. Mail orders will be filled in the order of receipt. This picture will positively not be shown anywhere else in this city this year.

MARCHETA AUTHOR WRITES FOR MARY

Dorothy Vernon, Pictured as Dond-on This Week, Described as One of Screen's Masterpieces

Patrons of the Dominion Theatre, where Mary Pickford's latest United Artists release, "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," is now showing, are enjoying a delightful musical treat, for which Victor Schertzinger, author of "Marcheta," is responsible.

Through special arrangements effected by Miss Pickford, Schertzinger was engaged to prepare the musical score which accompanies this picture, and that work has been eminently successful as testified to by the applause of the audience. To Organist Handley Wells must go the credit for the able and expressive rendition of the Schert- zinger accompaniment, all of which gives discriminate accent to the pic- ture.

Schertzinger has scored some of our cinema masterpieces, notably "Robin Hood." He is a pioneer in the film world and combines with his genius for music writing the ability to direct. Several of the most popular of current pictures are the result of Schert- zinger's direction. Those particularly worthy of mention include Jackie Coogan's "Long Live the King," and "A Boy of Flanders," the latter recently released.

SCREEN VERSION OF BOOK STRIKES HOME

Fox Picture of "Man Who Came Back," at Capitol, Is One of the Best

The romance that attaches itself to blacksheep sons was never more touch- ingly portrayed than in the William Fox screen version of "The Man Who Came Back," which opened a six day run at the Capitol Theatre last night.

Dorothy Mackail, the San Fran- cisco and Shanghai dance hall girl, in the picture, plays the finest role of her career, and George O'Brien, in the title role, acts himself into stardom. The picture is without a dull moment, thanks not only to the story by John Fleming Wilson, but to capable acting by the entire cast and effective adap- tion by the director, Emmet Flynn.

Cyril Chadwick, as Captain Trevelan, the suave globe trotting detective, has exactly the right savoir faire. Ralph Lewis, as Thomas Potter, the indulgent millionaire father of the ne'er-do-well, is another whose acting stands out nobly.

The story tells of a petted son who goes bad. His father sends him to a small job in his San Francisco ship- yard and the boy immediately be- comes worse. He is shanghaied and works his way across the Pacific, only to become an underworld white man in the den of the Orient, pawing what little he still retained for drink. In San Francisco, the youth meets a girl in a dance hall. He comes up with her again in a Chinese opium den, where they realize for the first time that they love. The girl really has been first rate right along.

They don't pull out and become rich and happy right away by any manner of means, but their rise goes to build a great story which is as well acted as the narrative of their fall. The ag- grieved love of the old father, back in New York combines eventually with the influence of the woman, to link the wanderer with the new philosophy on life, and they finally pull out of the murkiness. It's a human picture acted by people who know what human be- liefs act like in a given circumstance.

"The Man Who Came Back" was a good book, an excellent play by Jules Eckert Goodman, but it's a better pic- ture.

PLAYHOUSE "The French Doll" THEATRE: opened at the Play- house Theatre last night with Mae Murray as the star. In excellence and story as well as in Miss Murray's individual characteris- ation, it follows close upon Miss Mur- ray's recent photoplays, which were the highest examples of screen art.

"The French Doll" is the story of a little, joyous French maiden who is brought to this country by her unscrup- ulous father, who is a dealer in antiques of false antique furniture. Her exqui- site charm is to be the chief aid Miss Murray, quite unconscious of what the real business of her parents may be, really helps to dispose of many dollars' worth of "antiques," until one day, walking in the park, her dog runs after a squirrel, dragging her violently after, so that she is almost seriously injured, when in the nick of time there appears—Wellington Wick, a wealthy fish packer. From this point on, "The French Doll," already vivid and alive with Miss Murray's exquisite charm, takes one a swiftness of action and a delicious humor. The various ad- ventures that befall Georgine, that is, Miss Murray, and her various admirers all of whom become lovers of antique furniture, form an evening of enchanting entertainment.

NEW MUSICAL COMEDY BEGINS WEEK'S RUN

Reginald Hincks' Company Plays to Well-Filled House in "Tonight's the Night" at Royal

Judging by the reception given Mr. Reginald Hincks' thoroughly redecor- ated, renovated, and enlarged com- pany at the Royal Victoria Theatre last evening, "Tonight's the Night" is destined, during the remaining part of the week, to do something to liven up the reputedly gloomy evening from which some folk complain that they suffer. The entertainment drew an excellent house for its first presenta- tion, and the audience was an enthu- siastic one. Not a joke slipped past un- appreciated, not a song failed to make its mark. In fact, this venture of re- moving at a single stride from the smallest to the biggest theatre in the city seems definitely crowned with the approval of the public. As Mr. Hincks intimated in the little speech which he made between the acts, the evident good wishes need only be suc- ceeded by a little consistent box office patronage on the part of the citizens to make the undertaking a permanent success.

The cost of principals has been chosen from well-tried material. The scenery is just as effective, in a bigger way, as the always charming settings of the past have been for the same company's productions. The dresses are striking, the lighting artistic. The one persistently noticeable weakness is in the chorus, which sounds all too feebly through the drumming and piping of the orchestra. A moderation of the instruments would be merited.

Among the additional numbers which merit particular mention are the nymph dance and Pierrot dance given by the airy-footed Miss Roberta Bal- com, and the spirited Russian dance given in Act II by four girls, Daisy Corrance, Nonie Cutler, Mollie Birch and Doris Plimley. These numbers brought an overwhelming unanimity of expression from the spectators, who demanded return appearances in each instance.

The Cast
Audiences which have found them in the past the most delightful of en- tertainers, were glad to discover in the leading roles such favorites as Miss Peggy Lewis and Will Marshall, an in- comparable team of comedians, who carried important parts. Peggy, in the role of the pretty housemaid, Vic- toria, was a "topnotcher" all the time, and carried the laughter of the audi- ence as an accompaniment to a "pithy line of talk." Will Marshall, dapper as ever, helped her to sing "I'd Like to Bring My Mother," in the first act, and another duet in the last act, after she emerged, superlatively splendid in glittering sequins and towering picture hat. "Hinkey Dinkie, Parlez Vous" (Peggy and Chorus), and "I Love Jane Because She's Slender, Etc." (Mar- shall and Chorus) were great favor- ites.

Mr. Ernie Petch, a consistently in- fectionous fun-maker, injected a little of everything into the part of the Jew musical-comedy producer, Cohen. Snatches of opera, high notes and low, Spoonerisms, love-making, stage-man- aging, tripping over himself—these all help to make Cohen a very diverting gentleman. "Everybody Knows He Knows It," Mr. Petch's first song, is also the first song in the play, and among his other numbers are "Won- derful Girl," and "When I Brought." In duet with Miss Helen Starr, a newer member of the company, who has a very charming voice which merits her greater confidence, he sang "O, Won't You Flirt With Me?"

Mr. Frank Allwood made some- thing of the nature of a debut last evening. No one has ever seen him in a part which he has played better than that of the old dark butler, Jackson, Eileen Allwood, another member of the old company, nicely fitted the pretty pretty part assigned her. Last, but not least of the original company, is Mr. Hincks himself, younger and breezier than ever. In the part of the dandified Hon. Dudley Mitten, his new version of "The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck," with chorus, calls for energy. In fact, he is the epitome of energy wherever he is to be seen on the stage. A comparative newcomer—although she has ap- peared at least once before with the company—who made a convincingly favorable impression, is Irene Walsh Naamith. She has none of the gauche- rie of the novice, her speaking voice is excellently intoned, and she has a consistent conception of her role. She is a distinct asset to the company.

Mr. Stewart G. Clark has a moderately light part in the role of her husband.

Life is Real

No thoughtful man can close his eyes to the realities of life.

It is true that life insurance has to do with life. Life insurance sets the mind at rest,—it saves money for old age comforts,—it enters into many a business deal; in fact, it touches all phases of life.

But, it is equally true that life insurance stands between many a bereaved family and the hard realities of living. The loss of the breadwinner often places burdens upon shoulders too weak to carry them. Then Life Insurance can and will assume the load.

Good citizens of Canada are insuring their lives now at the rate of over a Million Dollars a day. Why not consult your nearest life insurance man and find out all that Life Insurance can do for you?

FAMOUS SHIP FIRM ADOPTS INVENTION

INVENTION CONTROLLED BY VICTORIANS BIG SUCCESS

Harland & Wolff installs Pneumatic Bolting-Up Machine in Their Clyde Shipyards

Harland & Wolff, famous Clyde firm of shipbuilders, has adopted the pneumatic bolting-up machine which has recently been placed on the market by the Amalgamated Appliance Corporation (Incorporated), of Seattle, according to reports received by Mr. R. E. Diepecker, of the brokerage firm of Mason & Diepecker, secretary-treasurer of the corporation.

The invention, which is controlled by a group of Victorians, has been thoroughly tested in a number of British shipyards, and in each case its performance has vastly exceeded expectations. The machine was invented by Mr. F. M. Hallett, of Seattle. It is called the Hallett Pneumatic Plate Tightener.

The machine is designed to replace the hand method of bolting up steel plates before the final riveting takes place. The hand method has been the practice hitherto in all structural steel work throughout the world.

In all shipbuilding and steel work it is necessary to draw steel plates together as tightly as possible before riveting them. This process is known to the trade as bolting-up. The bolting-up precedes the riveting, placing threaded bolts in every second hole, adjusting washers and nuts, and then, by means of large spanners, drawing the plates tightly together. Riveters then place the hot rivets in the odd holes, and, with a pneumatic hammer, permanently secure the plates or steel in place. Unbolters next unscrew the bolts, and, after rivets have been inserted in their places, the job is completed.

The pneumatic bolting-up machine, operated by compressed air, draws steel to steel in a fraction of the time needed under the hand method and much more satisfactorily and efficiently. It is operated by means of two sets of double toggles actuated by opposed pistons, traveling in pressed steel cylinders. To the upper toggle is attached the upper end of the drawbar, which carries at its lower end an automatic chuck for gripping the bolt used in pulling the plates together. Attached to the lower toggle is a plate, which, in turn, rests on the plate while the pull is being made.

The chuck and pistons are actuated by the compressed air, and as the pistons advance, the toggles move closely approach a straight line. Simultaneously the two toggle rods are moved together, pulling the plates together. The power of the combination is extremely great.

A cotter pin is driven into a slotted bolt to hold it in place.

In all sizes machines are made in all sizes from the 12-pound machine for use in shops, roundhouses, factories, construction and building, to the 28-pound machine which exerts a pull up to 10,000 pounds. This exerts a pull up to 10,000 pounds.

Use of the machine in the construction of a 5,000-ton steamer will effect a saving of 15,000. It is estimated by the company's distributors, the Pneumatic Plate Tightening Machine Co., Ltd., of London, after a series of exhaustive tests.

The Amalgamated Appliance Corporation holds the patent rights for the invention in all countries except the United States. About 90 per cent of the corporations in the world are using the machine.

The officers of the company are: President, Mr. Arthur Picot, of Victoria; directors, Messrs. G. R. Mason, of Victoria, and A. U. Spence, of Vancouver, and L. M. Austin, of Seattle; general manager, Mr. G. H. Will, and executive secretary-treasurer, Mr. R. E. Diepecker.

The Victoria Advisory Committee consists of Messrs. A. T. Goward, W. T. Barrett, A. D. Crease, Major J. A. Grant, A. S. Musgrave and L. E. V. Yorks.

TOKIWA MARU IS DELAYED BY FOG

JAPANESE LINER DOCKS ABOUT SEVEN HOURS LATE

Unusual Activity at William Head During Past Twenty-Eight Vessels Beach Station

Nothing her way cautiously through yesterday's fog in the Strait the Tokiwa Maru docked at the Rithet piers from Yokohama at 2:40 o'clock in the afternoon, some seven hours after the hour indicated in her wireless messages as her probable time of arrival.

The Tokiwa Maru discharged over two hundred tons of cargo before sailing for Seattle at 6:40 o'clock yesterday evening.

The last two days have been an unusually busy period at William Head. It is estimated that over 100 tons of cargo were landed there, and his staff have boarded no less than eight vessels during that time.

After having had her crew vaccinated at sunrise yesterday morning and steamed up to Vancouver. The Stuart Duffin was the next vessel to get to her anchor at the Head. Then came the Crofton Hall and the Oshira.

The Empress of Asia secured pratique at sunrise yesterday morning and the Canadian Spinner followed her a few hours later. After docking at Ogden Point at 11 o'clock and discharging in the neighborhood of 300 tons of cargo from Montreal and Eastern Canadian ports the Spinner cleared for Vancouver at 6:30 o'clock yesterday evening.

The Tokiwa Maru was the eighth vessel to call out the quarantine tender at the station.

OCEAN CHARTERS ON UPWARD TREND

GRAIN OUTLOOK TO EUROPE IS REPORTED BRIGHT

Japanese Lumber Market Improving, But Little Strength Seen in Australian Trade

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Australian lumber, excepted, there was an upward trend in the freight and charter markets from the Pacific Coast this week. The grain outlook to Europe especially is brighter and telegraphic advices from New York tell of a rapid advance in the North Atlantic charter market during the last two weeks, with grain leading the way. Berth grain rates for the United Kingdom and continent from New York are now 16 to 17 cents, against 8 and 7 cents in July. Other routes are also showing a similar trend, strength, and extensive supply offerings have failed to break the rates.

European lines from the North Pacific are booking parcels of wheat freely at 32 shillings 6 pence, and a 5,000-ton parcel was reported booked at 32 shillings 9 pence. This latter figure probably more nearly represents the present market than the former. Barley also is offering at 35 shillings. The full cargo rate has firmed up about 21 shillings 3 pence to 32 shillings 6 pence, with better inquiry and an upward tendency.

Black Tea Dominates Black tea has supplanted the green variety in the affection of the Canadian tea-drinking public, according to Mr. Walter Siegfried, of Siegfried, Schmidt & Company, leading tea importers, who arrived from Shanghai on the Empress of Asia.

The demand for green tea exists today only in some parts of Quebec Province. Mr. Siegfried stated. Assam and Cey

DEFENDS TARIFF POLICY OF OTTAWA

HON. DR. J. H. KING IS GIVEN
WARM RECEPTION
Federal Minister and His Wife Are Welcomed by Women's Liberal Forum at Supper Meeting

A warm reception was accorded Hon. Dr. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works in the Dominion Cabinet, and Mrs. King, who arrived in the city, at an informal banquet tendered by the Women's Liberal Forum of this city, last night. About one hundred were present at the gathering, held in the Liberal rooms on Government Street. Mr. W. Ivel presided, and at the conclusion, in thanking members of the party for turning out and making the reception a success, called attention to the need of following up this get-together meeting with a thorough reorganization of the party in the interests of winning the election, whenever it came on.

Mr. Ivel said that while the Minister had not made any announcement along this line, there was the possibility that an election might be held next Summer, and if so, a strong organization should be effected. There had been a feeling that Victoria needed a new organization, as far as the party was concerned. With co-operation, he felt that they could elect any candidate for either the Dominion or Provincial Houses.

In introducing Dr. King, Mr. Ivel said that he felt that the Federal member had done a great work in bringing Eastern members into line with the ideas of the West.

Reverses on Island
Hon. Dr. King referred to the unfortunate reverse which Liberalism had had in the last Provincial election in the southern part of Vancouver Island. The greater part of his address was devoted to the tariff policy of the Liberal Government at Ottawa. While the Government was a minority government, yet there had never been a government in Ottawa that had such majorities as the King Government had been able to command. He praised the House leadership shown by his leader, which was acknowledged by old parliamentarians as excellent anything in this line that had been in evidence in the House of Commons in the past.

Realizing that the wealth of the country came from its basic industries, the King Government had moved in the direction of making the operating expenses in these industries as low as possible. This afforded the opportunity for these industries to sell the surplus production in the markets of the world. The factories of Canada could at any time produce more in six months than would meet the demand of the local Canadian market. Canada was therefore destined, he felt, to use the over supply of the factories in the way of becoming a great manufacturing and trading country.

The St. Anthony-by-election, where the seat formerly occupied by a late member of the Government that felt that he could not agree with the tariff policy of the King Government, was won by a supporter of the Government. This was a vindication of the policy of the Government, he felt. The vote there repudiated the charge that the government of the day was shaping its policy for Western Canada alone.

With the early visit of the Premier he felt that he should not take up the question of the Government policies to any extent, but should leave that to his chief.

Hon. Alex. Manson, Attorney-General, extolled the work done by Hon. Dr. King at Ottawa. He had proved an able advocate of the cause of British Columbia there. The work of Premier Oliver, however, should not be overlooked in this respect also.

Right Any Wrong
Hon. T. D. Pattullo felt that this was no time for recriminations. This was a time to right whatever had been wrong in the past. The result of the recent election, as far as Victoria and the southern end of Vancouver Island was concerned, should prompt, on the part of the Liberals of that section, a determination to rally round the principles of the party.

Mr. J. A. Buckham, of Columbia, the Liberal whip in the late Legislature, called attention to the fact that he was the only constituent of Dr. King present at this meeting. The Province was fortunate in having him in the House of Commons.

Mr. A. D. Patterson, of Delta, said they were going to try and take Dr. King away from East Kootenay when the election came on, and give him a seat on the Fraser River.

During the evening, vocal selections were given by Mrs. Morton, who was accompanied by her daughter. A pleasing feature of the evening was the presence of the Blavie family, who recently arrived in the city from Russia, and had difficulty in entering the country. The three children of the family, who are talented musicians, gave selections during the evening on the piano and the violin.

New Working Agreement Discussed by Miners

NANAIMO, Sept. 15.—A mass meeting of the underground employees of the Western Fuel Corporation, Ltd., was held here on Saturday to discuss matters in connection with the new working agreement, which is to replace the present one, which expires at the end of this month.

The new agreement, as proposed by the new committee, was presented at the meeting, as was the company's proposal which, it is said, differs but little from that of the men.

The grievance committee, elected by the employees, consists of Messrs. H. Murdoch, T. Harrison, J. Sutton, L. Williams and W. Sykes, with Mr. Murdoch president and Mr. Harrison secretary.

Another meeting will be held on Tuesday morning when both proposals will be discussed.

Veteran of Bell Rebellion Dead
WINNIPEG, Sept. 15.—William M. Osborne, 68, died Friday following an illness of several years. He was a native of Simcoe, Norfolk County, Ontario, and came to Manitoba in 1880, serving in the Northwest Rebellion. For ten years he lived in British Columbia, returning here in 1914, where he had since lived.
